3 THE COURT: We'll hear argument this morning
4 in Case 12-751, Fifth Third Bancorp v. Dudenhoeffer.

5 Mr. Long.

6 ORAL ARGUMENT OF ROBERT A. LONG, JR.

7 ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONERS

8 MR. LONG: Mr. Chief Justice, and may it
9 please the Court:

10 A fiduciary's decision to do exactly what an 11 employee stock ownership plan is designed to do and what 12 the plan requires by continuing to offer employer stock 13 as an investment option is presumptively prudent.
14 Statutory language, trust law, congressional policy, and 15 practical considerations all support this result.

16 JUSTICE KENNEDY: You -- you want us to say 17 that we have sort of a coach class trustee. We're all 18 traveling in coach class when we have an ESOP. Once -- 19 once we go down that road, how -- how do we define what 20 the duties of the trustee are?

21 MR. LONG: Well, we're not asking for a 22 coach class trustee. I mean, we're -- we're saying to 23 look at the statutory definition of the duty of prudence 24 in Section 1104(a)(1)(b), which says that the duty of 25 prudence must take into account the character and aims

1 of the enterprise. So when we talk about ESOPs, we're 2 talking about a pension plan of a very specific kind.
3 It is designed, the definition --

4 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: This does -- this plan
5 didn't require you to invest solely in employer stock, 6 did it?

7 MR. LONG: This plan --

8 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: It gave you the option
9 to do it and to go above the 10 percent. But it didn't 10 require you to buy only employer stock, did it?

11 MR. LONG: Well -- well, ERISA, the statute,
12 requires that an ESOP invest primarily in employer's 13 stock. This particular plan, like many plans, requires 14 that all of the assets in the ESOP be invested in 15 employer stock except the amount that needs to be in 16 cash for short-term management requirements. So -- so 17 Congress both --

18 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Could you point to the 19 part of your plan that did that? Because I looked at it 20 and I didn't see the plan requiring 100 percent 21 investment.

22 MR. LONG: If -- Your Honor, if you look at 23 page 735 of the Joint Appendix, you'll find in -- in 24 part 3.3, it states, "However, in all events, the Fifth 25 Third stock fund as described shall be an investment

1 option."

2 And then if you look on 736 and then
3 continuing on to 737, it says that, "The funds shall be 4 invested primarily in Fifth Third stock." It says, "It 5 may also be invested in short-term liquid investments to 6 the extent the administrator determines they are 7 desirable to accommodate expected short run liquidity 8 needs."

9 But then it says, "The trustee shall have no
10 discretionary authority to sell Fifth Third Bancorp
11 shares or refrain from acquiring additional Fifth Third 12 Bancorp shares with funds not held for short run 13 liquidity needs."

14 So we think that --

15 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: You use the word
16 "primarily." There's an allegation here that you should 17 have stopped buying stock once you understood that there 18 was a serious condition in the company. That you've 19 breached your duty of loyalty, not of prudence. What do 20 you do with that allegation?

21 MR. LONG: Well, what we say is that these 22 duties -- again, we're not asking for coach class 23 duties. These are first class, if you will, duties, but 24 they have to be understood in the context of this 25 special kind of plan with special purposes. The -- the

1 purpose of an ESOP is to own company stock, to give the 2 employees a piece of the rock, an ownership interest in 3 the company. And so when -- when the issue is, as 4 you're -- as you're posing it, Justice Sotomayor, at 5 what point does a duty of prudence or a duty of loyalty, 6 either one, require the trustee to break the plans of 7 the term, deviate from the plan's --

8 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: It doesn't say you have 9 to. It says "primarily." It doesn't say you have to 10 continue buying.

11 MR. LONG: Well, again, I mean, I -- I
12 quoted the language. As we read the plan, and I think 13 the government agrees with us on this, the -- the 14 instructions of the plan are to invest all the money in 15 Fifth Third stock except as needed for short-term cash 16 requirements.

17 Now, there is the duty of prudence, and 18 we're not asking for a second class duty. But we think 19 in this context, given this special kind of plan, what 20 that duty means is can the purpose of this --

21 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Mr. Long, there is no
22 presumption written into this statute. There is an 23 exception from the diversification requirements in ESOP.
24 The whole object is to buy the company's stock, and so 25 you don't need to diversify. But apart from that, the

1 statutory requirement on loyalty and prudence is 2 undiluted. And so I don't know where this presumption
3 comes from. It's not in the statute itself.

4 MR. LONG: Well -- well, we do think it
5 comes from the text of the statute. It comes from the 6 duty of prudence itself which looks to the character and 7 aims of the plan, and then in Section 1107(d)(6), an 8 ESOP is defined in ERISA to be a plan that's designed to 9 invest primarily in the employer's own stock. So we 10 think that defines the special character name of the 11 plans. Congress has also spoken to this in other 12 statutory enactments --

13 JUSTICE KAGAN: Mr. Long, I think it --

14 JUSTICE SCALIA: Section 1104 of ERISA, 15 which this -- this plan is not exempted from, says that 16 the fiduciaries must manage a plan, and I quote, "for 17 the exclusive purpose of providing benefits to 18 participants and their beneficiaries." Do you 19 acknowledge that that's binding on the --

20 MR. LONG: It -- it is. And the government 21 adds the word "retirement" before benefits, and they say 22 an ESOP must be managed exclusively to provide 23 retirement benefits, but that --

24 JUSTICE SCALIA: Well, I don't add that.
25 I'm just saying providing benefits. I mean, that's --

1 that's --

2 MR. LONG: Oh, yes.

3 JUSTICE SCALIA: -- that's quite different
4 from running a plan to -- to own stock in the company.
5 That's -- that's not the basic purpose of it.

6 MR. LONG: Well, -- well, but,
7 Justice Scalia, plans -- ERISA plans provide different 8 kinds of benefits. The pension plans themselves can 9 provide death benefits, hardship benefits, disability
10 benefits. So if the benefit is stock in the company, a 11 piece of the rock, you know, the duty of the fiduciary 12 is to manage that as best as it can be managed to 13 produce the largest benefit for the participants. But 14 it's -- but it's not -- to go back to your question to 15 say, well, you know, it looks like some other investment 16 would be a better investment this week or this month.

17 JUSTICE KENNEDY: Is there anything in the 18 trust law or the common law that allows us to define 19 benefits that way?

20 MR. LONG: Well, I mean, I don't think we're 21 asking for a special definition of benefits. We're just 22 saying that what this plan -- and trust law does say the 23 settlor has a great deal of leeway to define the -- the 24 benefits that are being provided. This is a particular 25 kind of benefit, though, that Congress not only

1 authorized, but has strongly encouraged. I mean,
2 employers are strongly encouraged to offer this benefit.

3 So to say that prudence or loyalty or -- or 4 any of these fiduciary duties requires a sort of 5 continuous monitoring of the company to see whether -- 6 this is no longer such a good investment.

7 JUSTICE SCALIA: You say the benefits 8 referred to in the -- providing benefits to 9 participants, and you're saying the benefits to 10 participants is their ownership of company stock, 11 including worthless company stock.

12 MR. LONG: Well -- well, no, not at all, 13 Justice Scalia. I mean, the -- the idea is that the 14 company stock is valuable, and the hope is --

15 JUSTICE SCALIA: But when it ceases to be 16 valuable, it seems to me you're not.

17 MR. LONG: Well, and -- and we agree as -- 18 as every court of appeals has -- has held, that has 19 looked at this, all seven, that there -- there does come 20 a time when the purpose of the ESOP, of allowing the 21 employees to build an ownership stake in the company, 22 can no longer be realized because the company is in 23 serious peril, serious jeopardy.

24 JUSTICE KAGAN: But -- but there are 25 occasions, Mr. Long, outside of that very narrow

1 category of cases that you define in which the stock is 2 going to be way, way, way, overvalued relative to what 3 the fiduciaries know is the company's actual value.
4 Let's just say it -- the -- the market price is four 5 times more than the actual value, and the fiduciaries 6 know that because of inside information that they have.
7 It just sort of defies language to say that some -- a 8 prudent person would retain the investment in that kind 9 of wildly overvalued stock, doesn't it?

10 MR. LONG: Well, I mean, if I could take 11 that in several steps. I mean, that material 12 overvaluation standard, which no court has ever 13 accepted, we think, is unworkable. I mean, first of 14 all, before you get to the inside information, which I 15 think is the kernel of it that's left at the end, if you 16 have a stock that is traded on an active market, you 17 really can't tell the fiduciary, absent possibly inside 18 information, Well, you need to outsmart the market.

19 JUSTICE KAGAN: No. But I'm talking about a 20 case in which the fiduciary has inside information
21 that -- that -- that enables him to know that the stock 22 price is way overvaluing the actual value of the 23 company.

24 MR. LONG: But when you -- when you get to 25 that point of the analysis, and this is what all the

1 courts have recognized, you have to then bring in 2 securities law, and you have to recognize to trade on 3 that inside information would violate securities law.
4 So prudence or loyalty cannot require a violation of 5 securities law.

6 So what -- what are the other options? You
7 could halt trading. That would not itself violate 8 securities law. But that could do great damage to the 9 participants if the company -- if the company's own ESOP 10 said, well, we think something is so wrong that we're 11 shutting down the --

12 JUSTICE KAGAN: Well, I -- I suppose it
13 could, but a prudent manager might say that it would do 14 greater damage to the -- to the participants in the plan 15 to enable this misinformation to exist and to keep 16 putting -- to keep buying stock, to keep putting more 17 and more of their retirement investments into something 18 that is really overvalued.

19 MR. LONG: Well, I mean, our point is that 20 that public announcement, that the ESOP has stopped 21 allowing purchases of company stock, could cause a sort 22 of collapse in the stock price that would be terrible 23 for the participants, and saying that prudence requires 24 that is kind of risky gamble.

25 JUSTICE KAGAN: Well, you assume that

1 truthful information will out in the end, and is it 2 better to keep on putting more money into something that 3 is -- is -- you know, is really not a good investment 4 for the participants and the beneficiaries?

5 MR. LONG: Well, but -- but by -- you know,
6 stopping immediately you could cause even greater harm.
7 But let -- I think your initial question --

8 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: So what's wrong with 9 following the law and disclosing that material 10 information to the public and stopping the -- the 11 employees from losing more money in worthless stock --

12 MR. LONG: And I think that's ultimate --

13 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: -- or almost worthless
14 stock?

15 MR. LONG: That's ultimately where the 16 government comes in. Now, we've moved a huge distance 17 from let's, you know, shut down the ESOP to let's 18 release information.

19 But there we would say, again, we think you
20 have to consider this in connection with securities law 21 that if -- if you announce, well, there's this sort of 22 general duty to release information -- I mean, first of 23 all, that would be quite a big change in ERISA.
24 There's -- there are many specific requirements for 25 disclosure of information in ERISA.

1 And what the lower courts --

2 JUSTICE KENNEDY: It's just background
3 information for this point you're discussing. Can -- 4 can you tell me, is it a very common practice for the 5 directors and officers of the company themselves to be 6 the trustees? I had just assumed that that didn't 7 happen much anymore. Can you just tell me, because a 8 lot of these problems would be taken care of, insider
9 information and so forth, if there was an outside 10 trustee. And I assume -- tell me if I'm wrong -- that 11 the reason for the trust -- for the company themselves 12 to do it is because it saves money. It's -- it's 13 cheaper than hiring an outside investment. Maybe I'm 14 wrong about that. But can you --

15 MR. LONG: Well, in several --

16 JUSTICE KENNEDY: Can you just tell us what 17 the -- what the landscape is?

18 MR. LONG: First -- first of all, it is 19 common. So this -- this happens quite a lot.

20 You know, second of all, this -- this idea 21 of, well, we could appoint an independent trustee, would 22 not really solve all the problems because then you'd 23 have to have a monitoring trustee who would have to give 24 the independent trustee any inside information that they 25 had.

1 So the government's suggestion is, well, 2 okay, you'd get a low-level employee to be the 3 monitoring trustee. Well, that could itself violate 4 ERISA if you had somebody so low down that they wouldn't 5 know anything, that -- that also could be a violation.

6 So it's --

7 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: I mean, part of -- 8 I'm sorry. If you want to --

9 MR. LONG: So -- so it's -- it's really not 10 a solution, but it is common to have the officers of the 11 company, and I think it's not just to save money. It's 12 because it's a very important part of what the company 13 does, and they want to have their top people running it.

14 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: I mean, the dilemma
15 we're talking about, which is you've got inside 16 information and if you do something with it, it's going 17 to hurt the beneficiary, I mean, isn't that just a 18 reflection of the fact that these are really bad 19 investments? I mean, you're putting all your eggs in 20 one basket. Your -- your -- your job depends on the 21 company and your -- your retirement depends on the 22 company.

23 MR. LONG: Well --

24 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: So that's why you're 25 in this awkward position of saying if the company is

1 doing something bad, you know, having inside -- inside
2 information that should be disclosed because it affects 3 the stock price, then it's going to hurt not only the 4 company, but also your retirement stock.

5 MR. LONG: Well, I mean, first of all, it's 6 quite right that an ESOP, because it's totally 7 undiversified, is not by itself a good retirement plan.
8 And we think that just confirms that the -- the special 9 nature and -- and aims of an ESOP is not solely for 10 retirement benefits.

11 JUSTICE GINSBURG: But it is -- it is a 12 purpose, Mr. Long, isn't it? You said -- you quoted the 13 statute, and the statute just says benefits. But isn't 14 the plan -- doesn't the plan itself mention retirement?

15 MR. LONG: Oh, yes. And -- and -- and the 16 hope, of course, is that these plans will produce lots 17 of retirement benefits. The third plan, for long 18 periods of its history, has been extremely successful at 19 producing retirement benefits.

20 Our -- our basic argument is, though, that 21 because of the nature of this plan, because it is linked 22 to the company's stock, and because Congress recently 23 looked at this exact issue after Enron and said, we want 24 employees to have choices, but company stock can still 25 be a choice and we actually encourage that --

1 JUSTICE SCALIA: Well, the participants --

2 MR. LONG: -- but you don't shut it down as 3 soon as there's trouble. If a company --

4 JUSTICE SCALIA: Why do you need a special 5 rule for -- for ESOPs? I mean, the -- the factors that 6 you mentioned, it seems to me, apply to any trustee
7 who's managing. You say, oh, you should have sold 8 because the stock was overvalued on the -- on the stock 9 market. Well, how is the trustee supposed to know that?

10 MR. LONG: It's -- it's --

11 JUSTICE SCALIA: Is he going to outguess the 12 market?

13 MR. LONG: Right. Absolutely.

14 JUSTICE SCALIA: Surely you don't demand
15 that a prudent trustee outguess the market. Okay? So 16 if it's not the market that's overvalued, it must be 17 inside knowledge --

18 MR. LONG: Inside --

19 JUSTICE SCALIA: -- that causes him to know.

20 MR. LONG: And I want to come --

21 JUSTICE SCALIA: And you have the same
22 problem about not being able to use that inside 23 knowledge.

24 MR. LONG: You can't use it.

25 And let me come back to Justice --

1 JUSTICE SCALIA: So -- so why do we need a
2 special rule for ESOPs I'm saying? All the points you 3 make apply to any -- any kind of trustee, whether it's 4 only company stock or not. Why do we need a special 5 rule for -- for company stock operations?

6 MR. LONG: Well, because if it were just an 7 ordinary investment --

8 JUSTICE SCALIA: Right.

9 MR. LONG: -- where the purpose really is 10 just to maximize retirement benefits --

11 JUSTICE SCALIA: Right.

12 MR. LONG: -- there you do look at the 13 risk-return ratio and the expenses and all --

14 JUSTICE SCALIA: No. But you have the 15 same -- the same -- the same problems that -- that you
16 justify doing nothing for the ESOP, justifies doing 17 nothing in the other -- in the other plans; namely, you 18 can't expect me to -- to outsmart the market, number 19 one, nor can you expect me to use my inside knowledge.
20 That violates the securities laws.

21 So those are your two points, but it seems 22 to me those points apply. We don't have to adopt a 23 special law for this.

24 MR. LONG: Well -- well, but, again,
25 Justice Scalia, we're -- we are agreeing with the lower

1 courts. There is absolutely a duty of prudence, and we 2 don't deny that there would be a point when a prudent
3 ESOP fiduciary --

4 JUSTICE KAGAN: But even in saying that,
5 Mr. Long, you have a category where you would say the 6 duty of prudence applies, and it's this category of 7 where the company is on the verge of collapse.

8 But even there, you would face the exact 9 same securities law problems that you're -- that you're 10 saying should preclude --

11 MR. LONG: Well --

12 JUSTICE KAGAN: -- the government's test.
13 Because there, too, you would have this kind of, I don't 14 know what to do, I'm between a rock and a hard place, 15 the securities laws prevent me from selling on inside
16 information. The same problems apply.

17 MR. LONG: Well, no. What -- what we're 18 saying is using public information, the chances that the 19 company is going to be able to provide employee 20 ownership for the long term may become so low that a 21 prudent fiduciary would decide to shut it down.

22 But I do -- I do want to answer your 23 question on inside information because I think that's 24 the nub of it, and you raised the point of, if the 25 fiduciary actually knows the inside information, don't

1 they have to do something, make it public.

2 We talked about the securities law problem
3 with trading on it. The government says, Well, just -- 4 just make it public. Just release it to the public.

5 There we think the problem is, first of all,
6 that that would create this new sort of general ERISA 7 duty to provide information when it's not spelled out in 8 ERISA as -- you know, which has very specific 9 requirements. But --

10 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: That's not an ERISA
11 responsibility. It's an SEC responsibility. It's 10b-5 12 responsibility. Aren't you supposed to disclose any 13 information that a reasonable investor --

14 MR. LONG: And -- and that's --

15 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: -- would real --

16 MR. LONG: -- that's really exactly our 17 point, Justice Sotomayor. This is -- if there's inside 18 information that has to be disclosed, the securities law 19 provides a complete legal regime for this. The 20 government even agrees that in terms of the timing of 21 disclosure, the SEC timing should govern.

22 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: So what's -- what's 23 wrong with a rule that simply says a fiduciary has to do
24 whatever it's -- possible to protect beneficiaries
25 within the bounds of the law?

1 MR. LONG: Well, it -- it --

2 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: And so if the law
3 required you to disclose it, and you didn't, you've 4 breached your duty of prudence and of loyalty, because 5 you've protected the company --

7 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: -- but not the 8 beneficiaries.

9 MR. LONG: It sounds good, but I think it 10 would create serious problems. I mean, you would have, 11 then, two sources of information about the company, the 12 ESOP fiduciary, which you would be saying would have an 13 independent duty to decide when it thinks there's been 14 some material misstatement or some inside information 15 and the company, which could create great confusion.

16 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: You -- you don't -- 17 you're -- you have an absolute duty to the beneficiary.

18 MR. LONG: Well, but -- but the -- I guess 19 the point is, Justice Sotomayor, from the -- the 20 fiduciary can say, Look, if there's been a securities
21 law violation about disclosure or material 22 misstatements, there's a securities law remedy for that, 23 and the plan participants will get that remedy.

24 JUSTICE KAGAN: Well, then, what if the --

25 JUSTICE ALITO: In an ESOP -- in an ESOP,

1 can the fiduciary take into account the interests of the 2 participants as employees as opposed to their interests 3 as investors? It doesn't seem to me that those will 4 necessarily always be the same. And there may be 5 situations in which something that would be potentially 6 good for the participants as investors would be quite 7 bad for them as employees.

8 They want to keep their jobs. They want the 9 company to stay afloat. Can that properly be taken into 10 account, or is that outside of the bounds?

11 MR. LONG: I mean, I -- I don't think you 12 have to do that. I think you -- you know, you look at 13 the interest of the participants who are both employees
14 and participants in the plan, you know. So -- so I 15 don't think it's necessary to say, Well, we're not even 16 looking at them as participants in the plan. We're 17 looking at them only as employees. Are -- we think --

18 JUSTICE ALITO: No, I'm not saying only as 19 employees, but I'm saying can you take that into account 20 at all? If you're in the situation where stopping 21 trade -- stopping purchases in company stock would be a 22 signal that would potentially trigger bankruptcy and 23 liquidation for the company, can that be taken into 24 account?

25 It might not be in the best interests -- if

1 the -- if the -- if these participants were simply 2 investors, it might be in their best interests to stop 3 buying the stock. But if taking that step would have 4 the consequences that I mentioned, it might be very much 5 not in their best interests as employees.

6 MR. LONG: Well, I mean, I think I'd say
7 that that would be one way to sort of work this out.
8 It -- that's another way of getting to the -- the bottom 9 line that we think is correct here, which is that an 10 ESOP is a special kind of pension plan, and the whole 11 nature of it is to own company stock. And therefore --

12 JUSTICE KENNEDY: Well, how do you fine -- 13 define the standard or the duty that's responsive to 14 Justice Alito's concern? And I had the same problem.

15 Let's assume that trustees in a non-ESOPs
16 plan have a duty to maximize returns and provide stable 17 investments. Is it somehow different when it's an ESOP?

18 MR. LONG: Yes, I -- I think it is. If 19 there's --

20 JUSTICE KENNEDY: And if so, what is the 21 duty?

22 MR. LONG: The -- I think the --

23 JUSTICE KENNEDY: How do you define it?

24 MR. LONG: I think the -- the duty is to 25 maximize the returns for this special kind of a vehicle,

1 which is a vehicle that owns stock in only one company, 2 the -- the employee's company, and for reasons that -- 3 this kind of goes to -- to Justice Alito's point but in 4 a different way -- for reasons that go beyond just the 5 returns.

6 It's -- it is because it is the -- the 7 employees' company. Congress thought it was beneficial 8 for many reasons to encourage employee ownership of 9 companies, and so you don't look to whether, you know, 10 this appears to be a bad investment as compared to a 11 mutual fund.

12 JUSTICE KENNEDY: Well, if I'm the trustee,
13 I don't know what my duty is based on your answer. I 14 don't know what I'm supposed to do.

15 MR. LONG: Well, I mean, the courts of 16 appeals have had a fairly uniform approach to this for 17 now almost 20 years, and it has -- it has not been 18 causing a great deal of -- of trouble. The approach 19 they've all been taking is that because of the special 20 nature of ESOPs and, you know, when the plan requires 21 that all the funds be invested in the ESOP at least, 22 that's what the fiduciary must do, and that is 23 presumptively prudent.

24 It's not necessarily prudent, and there 25 would be, you know -- the way we think the Courts have

1 best expressed it, if -- and they draw this from trust
2 law -- if the special aims of this plan, employee 3 ownership, can no longer reasonably be achieved, then 4 prudence requires the plan to be shut down. That is not 5 a bright-line standard, but that is the standard 6 the courts have adopted.

7 I'd like to save the balance of my time, if 8 I may.

9 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you, Mr. Long.
10 Mr. Mann.

11 ORAL ARGUMENT OF RONALD MANN
12 ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

13 MR. MANN: Thank you, Mr. Chief Justice, and 14 may it please the Court:

15 I think what I can most usefully do is talk 16 first about the question of the relevant benefits that 17 was raised by some of you, and then second address this 18 so-called "rock and a hard place" problem which we think 19 is essentially a confession of disloyalty by my most 20 able opposing counsel.

21 First, the nature of the benefits in the 22 statute, the reference to benefits in 404(a)(2)(A) is 23 quite plain. It refers to the basic type of plan that's 24 covered by ERISA, which is an employee benefit plan as 25 defined in Section 1002 sub 3 --

1 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Mr. Mann, I think it would help if you
2 raised the podium a bit so you're closer to the microphone.

3 MR. MANN: Section 1002, Sub 3 describes 4 employee benefit plans, which are the subject of ERISA.
5 And there are two types of employee benefit plans as 6 defined in that section. There are plans that provide 7 welfare benefits and plans that provide pension 8 benefits. And I think there is no doubt that the 9 benefits that must be the exclusive purpose of an ERISA plan 10 are those benefits that are required to be governed by 11 ERISA.

12 And I think we need to remember the grand 13 bargain of ERISA, reflection of the statute is, if 14 employers are going to provide these kinds of benefits, 15 the people that manage the retirement and welfare plans 16 must accept fiduciary duties. That's the bargain of 17 ERISA. If you are going to provide these kinds of 18 benefits, you have to accept fiduciary duties.

19 And the sole purpose of the plan under the 20 statute is to provide those benefits.

21 Now, I'd like to talk about this idea of 22 this "rock and a hard place" that was first raised by 23 Justice Kagan.

24 I think that the best way to think about 25 this is, essentially, what the petitioners are saying

1 is, if I decide to put myself in a position where I owe 2 duties to two different people, my employer on the one 3 hand and the beneficiaries of the plan, because I've put 4 myself in a conflicted situation, it's perfectly right 5 for me to just do nothing.

6 That's not the way it works. You can 7 imagine a lawyer that undertakes to represent two 8 clients with conflicting interests. If it comes to the 9 point where the interests are in conflict, well, the 10 lawyer has already made a mistake. The lawyer cannot 11 simply say, well, I choose to protect one client, not 12 the other. They have to be something, and they're going 13 to violate some --

14 JUSTICE BREYER: I would say that -- well, 15 what the problem -- but can you give me any example of 16 any case? There may be so many you can't even give me 17 your best one. But trusts have been around for probably 18 800 years. And can you give me an example of one where 19 a court said a trustee has breached its fiduciary 20 obligation because he failed to use inside information?

21 MR. MANN: Oh, no, I -- I think there 22 probably isn't such a case, but I would --

23 JUSTICE BREYER: You think there is not such 24 a case?

25 MR. MANN: I think there probably is not

1 such a case. The court of appeal --

2 JUSTICE BREYER: Fine. If there is not such 3 a case, what's the problem? Because what's the rock and 4 the hard place?

5 MR. MANN: Well, the --

6 JUSTICE BREYER: The person has an 7 obligation to act prudently in respect to the 8 fiduciaries -- to the beneficiaries, of course. But he 9 cannot, irrespective of that, have an obligation to use 10 inside information. End of the matter. What -- what's 11 wrong with saying just that?

12 MR. MANN: I -- I'm not sure what you mean 13 by that, but I'd like to --

14 JUSTICE BREYER: What I mean by it is just 15 what I said. There is no rule of trust or ERISA law 16 that you can breach a duty to a beneficiary by failing 17 to use inside information, period. I don't know what 18 the SEC's brief is. I'm going to ask --

19 MR. MANN: I think I --

20 JUSTICE BREYER: -- the SG what their 21 opinion is because they don't seem to appear on this 22 brief.

23 MR. MANN: I think I would respectfully 24 disagree with that, and I think it's important to 25 understand why, Justice Breyer and Justice Kagan.

1 JUSTICE BREYER: The answer is there's not 2 been a case ever holding the contrary --

3 MR. MANN: But that's --

4 JUSTICE BREYER: -- but you yourself
5 disagree with it.

6 MR. MANN: But that is --

7 JUSTICE BREYER: Now, what the reason you
8 disagree with it?

9 MR. MANN: That is because the courts of 10 appeals unanimously, as Mr. Long says, have held that 11 the trustees of these plans have no duties at all. And 12 so if trustees have no duties at all, it's of course 13 quite difficult for them to breach the duties. Now, 14 my --

15 JUSTICE BREYER: I'm sorry. I'm saying go
16 back to England. There are many cases where settlors 17 have said what kinds of things you should invest in, and 18 they invest in them. They have inside information that 19 it is a bad investment. Is there any case that says 20 they have a duty of obligation not to do what the 21 settlor says? I wouldn't have been surprised if you had 22 found some cases, but I'm also not surprised that there 23 aren't any. That's why I asked the question.

24 MR. MANN: With respect to that particular 25 question, and I -- I did not understand your question

1 that way, and I don't -- I can't say whether there is or 2 has never been such a case.

3 But what's important from our perspective is 4 the trustees in this case undertook to represent 5 conflicting interests. Ordinarily when people undertake 6 to represent conflicting interests --

7 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Let me just continue to 8 Justice Breyer's question. There are some legal duties.
9 I don't know of a trustee who has to break the law.
10 They can't sell on the basis of inside information, and 11 that's a legal prohibition.

12 MR. MANN: I think that's clearly true, but 13 I think they, at the same time, at their peril, breach 14 their duties of loyalty to those for whom they've 15 accepted a fiduciary duty. And the --

16 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: So your claim rises and 17 falls on the fact that you think they're -- they've 18 breached their duty of loyalty by having the inside 19 information and -- or exactly what is your claim? What 20 could they have done that wouldn't breach the law?

21 MR. MANN: My claim does not rise or fall at 22 all on that. And I don't think there is any reason why 23 you need to address that, given the particular nature of 24 the complaint. The complaint in this case alleges that 25 the trustees knew or would have known, if they had

1 undertaken a reasonable investigation of the type that 2 is required by ordinary principles of prudence, that the 3 stock was materially overvalued, and the stock was a 4 much more risky investment than it was at the time that 5 the plan was designed.

6 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: How would they --

7 JUSTICE ALITO: What do they have to do
8 then? You said they can't sell the stock based on that 9 information. What are they supposed to do? Or is it 10 your argument that they just never -- you never should 11 have insiders serving as trustees; you always have to 12 have an outside running these ESOPs?

13 MR. MANN: Well, I wouldn't say that you 14 always have to, but I do think that the situation is 15 quite parallel to the situation that corporate directors 16 face when they come into a conflicted situation. In the 17 corporate context where directors ordinarily are 18 protected by the business judgment rule, if a situation 19 arises in which their interests patently diverge from 20 the interests of the shareholders, they don't simply 21 decide to represent both interests but pick one over the 22 other. They instead step aside and appoint -- and, you 23 know, allow independent people to represent the 24 shareholders.

25 JUSTICE ALITO: So you're basically saying

1 that if it's not flatly prohibited, it is very unwise.
2 It generally shouldn't happen. You're putting yourself 3 in an impossible position if you are an insider and 4 you're going to serve as the trustee of an ESOP.

5 MR. MANN: Well, I think it's a plain 6 implication of Justice Kennedy's opinion in Glenn and 7 the majority opinion in Glenn that the structure of the 8 fiduciary and the relationship to the trust being 9 conflicted should raise a red flag.

10 JUSTICE BREYER: Here when you say -- I am
11 totally with you on this. We walk into the trustee's 12 office. It's like Ralph Nader investigating the FTC 13 years ago. There is someone asleep on the sofa. In his 14 inbox is ten feet of papers telling him about all 15 public -- telling him about the corporation's condition.
16 It's apparent he's never read them. If he had read 17 them, he would have taken action. Of course you would 18 have a case, I would think.

19 MR. MANN: But that is our complaint.

20 JUSTICE BREYER: But you want to go beyond 21 that?

22 MR. MANN: No. Our complaint is they have 23 the information in step one. They didn't do anything.
24 Step one, they did not --

25 JUSTICE BREYER: Not just information.

1 Remember I carefully said all this was publicly
2 available information. You want to say it also applies
3 when it's not publicly available information. Am I 4 right or wrong?

5 MR. MANN: You are correct. I would also like to 6 say that, but I would like to point out our complaint 7 alleges a large amount of information that is one, 8 public; two, false information promulgated by the 9 petitioners, the falsity of which perhaps could have 10 been undertaken by -- discovered by considerable 11 investigation.

12 And instead of conducting a reasonable
13 investigation that a trustee for a billion dollar 14 pension plan ordinarily would conduct -- and just to be 15 clear for the earlier discussion, this is not a plan
16 that is invested solely in Fifth Third stock. This plan 17 has a variety of investments. There is one particular 18 fund that has 1 to $200 million --

19 JUSTICE KENNEDY: Suppose you were a 20 legislature or a congressman. You are absolutely 21 committed to the idea that it's important and salutary 22 to have employees own stock in the company for which 23 they work. How would you write the statute?

24 MR. MANN: I think Congress has done a great 25 job of writing the statute. Congress wrote a

1 statute that tells employers you can set up these plans, 2 and the trustees don't have to diversify, which is 3 inherent in having a plan that has employee stock --

4 JUSTICE KENNEDY: Well, once you say the 5 trustee doesn't have the duty to diversify, it seems to 6 me you are living in something of a different world.

7 MR. MANN: I think that's right. And that's 8 why we believe that this standard of prudence is 9 affected by the fact that it's an employee stock
10 ownership plan rather than just a portion of the fund 11 that owes employers' stock. But that doesn't mean that 12 there's no duty of loyalty. It shouldn't affect that at 13 all.

14 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Well, but affected
15 is not quite enough. I mean, this trustee's job is to 16 buy the company's stock. In that particular fund, it's 17 100 percent, other than the money you need to buy and 18 sell. So he has the easiest job in the world. He gets 19 up in the morning and says, "I think I will buy some of 20 this company's stock."

21 (Laughter.)

22 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: That's what he's 23 supposed to do. And I think that what every Court of 24 Appeals has recognized is that that is by definition 25 prudent, because that is the settlor's objective with

1 one exception. If everything is going, you know, south 2 and the company's collapsing, well, then he does have 3 the obligation to do something.

4 So I don't understand how you keep -- can 5 say that he has breached a fiduciary duty of prudence 6 when the people investing in this ought to know what 7 they're going to get is the company's stock.

8 MR. MANN: I think it's -- I'm glad that you 9 asked that question, because I think that's central at 10 the disagreement between respondents and petitioners.

11 Now, the first answer, of course, is that 12 you can't look at the statute without thinking that 13 Congress had a different understanding of the duties.
14 And if I just could just mention a couple of things
15 about the statute. It's not only the point that Justice
16 Scalia made that Section 404(a)(2) specifically carves
17 out some duties but not others.

18 It's also that it only forgives prudence to 19 the extent of diversification, which means that prudence 20 has to mean something other than diversification. And 21 then it still further limits the scope of forgiveness.
22 It only forgives it with respect to the acquisition or 23 holding of qualifying employee securities -- employer
24 securities, which is much narrower than the fiduciary 25 duty defined in Section 403 to manage and control the 1 assets of the plan.

2 But what's important for our purpose is, it 3 would not -- if you ask the question, although the 4 statute resolves it, it would not have been sensible for 5 Congress to tell the people that manage employer stock 6 ownership plans that they have no duties of prudence or 7 loyalty to the employers whose retirement funds are at 8 stake.

9 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Well, what is 10 exactly the duty of prudence? Presumably, you buy -- 11 you invest the funds in the company's stock, whether 12 it's going up or going down, right? If you have the 13 funds, all you can do is invest them. The stock is down 14 half a point or whatever. You still buy it, right?

15 MR. MANN: Okay. So I'd like to say, first, 16 there is the duty of loyalty. And it does breach the 17 duty of loyalty, for example, as the Court said in 18 Varsity, and I don't think it's controversial, to lie to 19 the beneficiaries.

20 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Well, what's the 21 answer to my question?

22 MR. MANN: With respect to the duty -- so
23 the duty of loyalty is enough to sustain --

24 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: No, no. I didn't 25 ask a question about the duty of loyalty.

1 MR. MANN: With respect to --

2 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: I asked a question
3 of whether or not the trustee is imprudent because he 4 buys the stock because it's gone down -- you know, gone 5 down 10 percent.

6 MR. MANN: Okay. The most fundamental thing
7 about the duty of prudence that you would get from your 8 statement of trust is that the outcome of the investment
9 is not what's relevant. What's relevant is, and Justice
10 Scalia when he was on the D.C. Circuit wrote a long 11 opinion in Fink, which discusses in detail, and you'd 12 see the same thing in the comments to Section 90 of the 13 restatement, the most important thing is what you might 14 call procedural prudence. Okay. These people are 15 managing a fund of $1 billion. The relevant question is 16 what would a reasonable trustee of a billion-dollar fund 17 have done to investigate the situation? Would someone 18 with a billion-dollar fund and 100 to $200 million of 19 Fifth Third stock have routinely been collecting 20 information about the nature of that investment, whether 21 they should take some action?

22 It well might be -- it well might be that 23 they should not in a flighty or haphazard way dispose of 24 the stock, because that's the baseline of this plan, is 25 to invest in the stock. But that's entirely different

1 from doing absolutely nothing, not telling the employers
2 information --

3 JUSTICE ALITO: Do you think the trustee has 4 a duty to acquire inside information? The trustees say, 5 I don't want to know insider information. I'm going to 6 put myself in exactly the position of an outside
7 trustee, so I'm going to take into account only public 8 information, I'm not going to do an investigation.

9 MR. MANN: Our position is that the duty of 10 the trustee is to behave as a prudent fiduciary would 11 behave, and if the trustee is unable to do that because 12 the trustee has conflicting interests to serve, then the 13 trustee is violating the duty of loyalty and should 14 arrange the situation differently.

15 JUSTICE ALITO: What's the answer to my 16 question? Assuming that --

17 MR. MANN: The answer to your question --

18 JUSTICE ALITO: -- permissible for an 19 insider to be in this position, can the insider behave 20 like an outsider?

21 MR. MANN: I think it's plain in the case
22 that if the trustee does not undertake the investigation 23 that a prudent fiduciary would take, because of their 24 concern about acquiring insider information of the 25 employer, then they would violate the ordinary standard

1 of prudence.

2 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Well, can we talk 3 concretely instead of just saying, well, they've got to 4 do what a prudent fiduciary can do? Are they allowed to 5 take into account the impact of a decision to stop 6 buying on the beneficiaries? The stock is going down, 7 if the trustee stops buying, that's going to cause a 8 drop in the value of the shares and that's going to hurt
9 the beneficiaries. So what does he do? Does he say, I
10 shouldn't buy any more because I think it's going to go 11 down some more? Or should he say, I should keep buying 12 because otherwise all of the holdings, and this is all 13 they are invested in, their holdings are going to go 14 down?

15 MR. MANN: I think the obligation of the 16 fiduciary at all times is to behave prudently in 17 managing investment prudently. There might --

18 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: I asked for an 19 answer to the question. And I -- it doesn't -- it's not 20 going to help me to have this mantra as opposed to --

21 MR. MANN: Well, I don't -- I don't believe 22 that the question is whether they must sell or mustn't 23 sell. I think they have to decide would it be in the -- 24 based on the facts we know right now, do we believe that 25 this is a short-term blip in the stocks and it will rise

1 back up, in which case, we --

2 JUSTICE BREYER: In a way, what happens is 3 that the trustee, knowing that the company has announced 4 an enormous oil strike, is having to sit on a private 5 meeting where three people come in and you say, yeah, 6 there was an oil strike, but it's impossible to get the 7 oil out. Ha, ha, we put one over on that time. Okay.

8 MR. MANN: If the --

9 JUSTICE BREYER: Now, what's that trustee 10 supposed to do?

11 MR. MANN: I think I lost track of whether 12 the oil strike was true or false.

13 JUSTICE BREYER: No. There's a false.

14 MR. MANN: Okay.

15 JUSTICE BREYER: He alone, when two other
16 people, know that this oil is worthless. The market 17 doesn't. It's totally inside information. What, in 18 your opinion, is he supposed to do?

19 MR. MANN: I believe that the trustee 20 violates the duty of loyalty and the duty of prudence if 21 the trustee, believing that the stock is overvalued, in 22 fact, does not take action to protect the beneficiaries.

23 JUSTICE BREYER: Okay. So your answer is, 24 totally inside information, he sells, right?

25 MR. MANN: I didn't say that. I think he

Official

1 needs to do something.

2 (Laughter.)

3 JUSTICE KENNEDY: I just don't see what the 4 trustee is supposed to do. You have the company stock.
5 By comparing it with other stocks, there will be many 6 investments that are just as good or better. When does 7 he have to make the investment, in other words, just as 8 good or better? I don't understand. I don't understand 9 what -- how we're going to implement what Congress 10 wanted to implement.

11 MR. MANN: Well, we believe that the 12 traditional fiduciary standard is not that hard to 13 implement. It's a standard that's been imposed on 14 fiduciaries for centuries. It's a standard that all 15 managers of trusts have undertaken. The only thing
16 that's really different about these particular trustees 17 is that they're managing funds that are worth, you know, 18 billions of dollars.

19 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Mr. Mann, you said you were going 20 to deal with the rock and a hard place. But it's been put to you that if 21 the
22 trustee goes out and sells, that would be a signal that 23 things are bad with the company. So it will end up 24 being worse for the beneficiaries of the plan.

25 MR. MANN: We certainly believe that if the 26 trustee's view, based on the information, is that

Official

1 selling the stock would be bad for the beneficiaries,
2 then a decision not to sell is prudent. If the trustee 3 decides selling would be bad for the beneficiaries so
4 we're not going to sell, that is a prudent decision. It 5 might be right. It might be wrong. But if that's their 6 decision, I think that's prudent. If a trustee decides 7 selling would be beneficial to the beneficiaries, it 8 might be right, it might be wrong, but if that's what 9 they actively decide, then I think they need to do 10 something. And that's our position.

11 Now, the rock and the hard place, I
12 understand that some of the Justices have disagreed.
13 But I mean, our position on that is quite clear. The 14 only reason petitioners are between a rock and a hard 15 place is they have undertaken to have interests that 16 directly conflict with their fiduciary obligation to 17 these employees' retirement benefits. There is nothing 18 in the statute. There is no practical consideration 19 that petitioners have suggested. There is no reason 20 that these funds need to be managed by insiders. As far 21 as we --

22 JUSTICE GINSBURG: What about the argument - so you have 23 outside trustees, they have to get information from the insider 24 and if they get the information from an insider we're back in the same 25 place.

26 MR. MANN: Well, of course, if you wait

1 until you are in possession of information and you know 2 the stock is overvalued, you can't solve the problem by 3 stepping aside then. But if you set up the trust in the 4 hands of an independent investment manager in the 5 beginning, we believe that if you look carefully to 6 provisions of Section 1105(c) and (d), you will see that 7 Congress has provided a great deal of protection for the 8 person it appoints. Of course, it's true that if the 9 person in the company that appoints a fiduciary knows 10 that there is a breach of fiduciary duty by the 11 investment manager, they're still liable. But what else
12 could Congress possibly say? Congress couldn't write a 13 statute that says people that knowingly breach fiduciary 14 duties of the employees are not supposed to be liable, 15 so --

16 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: The status of the 17 trustee, whether it's an interested party or a 18 disinterested fiduciary, is disclosed to the 19 beneficiaries, I take it, at the outset? They can 20 decide that they don't want to invest in that particular 21 fund and there are nine other options because of that 22 potential conflict?

23 MR. MANN: Yes, they are advised of that.
24 Their ability not to invest in that particular fund is 25 limited during the class period because all of the

1 matching contributions for all of the class period went 2 directly into this fund. So employees would have to 3 take that active step to remove them from the fund.

4 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: If they wanted -- 5 they got four percent matching funds if 6 they were in that fund?

7 MR. MANN: That is correct.

8 I think the most important thing for us to 9 emphasize is the point of ERISA is that if an employer 10 is going to provide employee benefits, the people that 11 manage those benefits have to accept fiduciary duties.
12 There is nothing unusual about that. The standard is 13 not unworkable. It's a standard that is provided for 14 centuries. And if the only reason that the people 15 managing the fund can't comply with those duties is 16 because they have obligations to the employers, then 17 that is not something that ERISA can tolerate.

18 Thank you.

19 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you, counsel.

20 Mr. Kneedler.

21 ORAL ARGUMENT OF EDWIN S. KNEEDLER

22 ON BEHALF OF THE UNITED STATES,

23 AS AMICUS CURIAE, SUPPORTING RESPONDENTS

24 MR. KNEEDLER: Mr. Chief Justice, and may it
25 please the Court:

1 Several points at the outset. Justice Alito
2 asked about taking into account the interests of 3 employees as employees. But Section 1104 speaks in 4 terms of operating the plan for the exclusive purpose of 5 providing benefits to participants and their 6 beneficiaries, which means the interests of employees 7 are taken into account only insofar as they are 8 participants in the plan, not more generally.

9 And the second and related point I would 10 like to make with respect to that is the use of the word 11 "benefits" in 1104(a) that says that the plan must be 12 operated for the exclusive purpose of providing benefits 13 to participants. We have that on page 6(a) of our 14 petition appendix. Further up on that is the definition 15 in 1234 of an individual account plan, which --

16 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Mr. Kneedler, a stock 17 drop in and of itself, I don't think, can prove a lack 18 of prudence because --

19 MR. KNEEDLER: Agree.

20 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: You agree with that?

21 MR. KNEEDLER: Yes, we do. I mean, there
22 are situations in which there may be additional unusual
23 circumstances, but simply a stock drop would not. But I 24 think that, as Justice Scalia pointed out, that would 25 also be true in a diversified plan.

1 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Exactly. It's true
2 almost anywhere because you can't outsmart the market.

3 MR. KNEEDLER: At least we're not 4 insisting that a fiduciary in order to be prudent 5 must --

6 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: So how do you deal with 7 what has been vexing us, the issue of what a fiduciary 8 should or can do when they are an insider and have only 9 inside information, not public information?

10 MR. KNEEDLER: Right.

11 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: So where is the breach 12 of fiduciary duty? Where's the breach of loyalty? What 13 can it consist of, and what does someone have to prove 14 in a complaint? Because this has to do with a pleading 15 presumption and a merits presumption.

16 MR. KNEEDLER: Right. And if there is a 17 substantive principle here, that would have to be 18 pleaded. If it is an evidentiary presumption, as the 19 Sixth Circuit said, that would not have to be pleaded in 20 the complaint.

21 But several points on that. First of all,
22 in response to Justice Breyer's question about inside
23 information, we would point out on page 31 of our brief, 24 quoting Scott, that if a fiduciary has peculiar 25 knowledge about a corporation's stock's value, that is a

1 factor to be taken into account in terms of the way the 2 trustee exercises his responsibility.

3 JUSTICE BREYER: Well, the -- the union
4 brief says the thing to do in that situation is, without 5 saying anything, turn the trusteeship over to a person 6 who doesn't have that knowledge. That takes care of the 7 problem. And the reason I raised the question, of 8 course, is there are trillions of dollars probably 9 managed by ERISA funds. I don't know what percentage of 10 those involve stocks. Not this kind -- of this kind.
11 Maybe you know, but my guess is a lot.

12 And obviously, before I wrote a word that 13 said what you have to do or don't have to do with inside 14 information, I would like to know directly, not 15 indirectly, what the SEC thinks.

16 MR. KNEEDLER: Well --

17 JUSTICE BREYER: And maybe you can tell me.
18 But the SEC isn't here. And at least there's no SEC 19 lawyer that signed your brief. So I don't know the 20 extent to which that's --

21 MR. KNEEDLER: I mean, this is primarily a 22 labor case. The security --

23 JUSTICE BREYER: It might be you might have 24 a good reason for it.

25 MR. KNEEDLER: Right.

1 JUSTICE BREYER: But right now I am supposed
2 to write some words or join some words.

3 MR. KNEEDLER: Right.

4 JUSTICE BREYER: And those words will tell
5 trustees of possibly -- I have no idea -- but maybe 6 hundreds of billions, or maybe billions anyway, of -- of 7 assets in the stock market, what they're supposed to do 8 when they learn some inside information that affects the 9 company's stock. And I hate to tell you, I don't know 10 anything in this area about what the likely effects are.
11 And, therefore, I'd like to know what they think. And 12 the closest I came to it was the AFL-CIO brief, frankly, 13 where they said what you're supposed to do here is -- is 14 turn this over. So what do I do?

15 MR. KNEEDLER: Well, that is, of course, one 16 option if -- if circumstances get very bad. This was 17 true in the WR Grace situation. The trustee -- the 18 inside trustees appointed an outside trustee to do an 19 evaluation. But the first -- the first step that -- 20 that Mr. Mann pointed out is, I think, a fundamental one 21 that should not be overlooked here. And that is that 22 the fiduciaries have an obligation to actually exercise
23 their discretion and actually investigate. And here, 24 the allegation is that these trustees did not even do 25 that. So if you're going to be giving deference to a

1 trustee under --

2 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: I'm sorry. Investigate
3 what, the nonpublic information? Investigate --

4 MR. KNEEDLER: Investigate -- investigate
5 the consequences of the nonpublic -- this would be true
6 of public information, too, that the -- this is not -- a 7 plan like this, even though it is exempt from -- from 8 requirements of diversification, there are still prudence 9 duties, which include investigation and -- and 10 monitoring of the -- of the investment. So the -- the 11 fiduciaries of a plan like this do have an ongoing 12 obligation to investigate and to keep themselves 13 apprised of how the company is doing.

14 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Well, what exactly, 15 concrete terms, what do you do as the trustee? You have 16 this information, inside information that says that the 17 stock is overvalued. Do you sell? In which case the 18 beneficiaries' holdings go way down and they sue you, or 19 do you not sell? In which case when the information 20 comes out, the beneficiaries sue you because their value 21 goes down. What are you supposed to do?

22 MR. KNEEDLER: In -- in the category of 23 cases we're talking about here, and these are the ones 24 that are of the greatest concern to the Department of 25 Labor, the stock is materially overvalued because of the

1 inside information. In that situation -- and I think
2 this is the point Justice Kagan was making -- it 3 would -- it would ordinarily be the right thing to do to 4 sell, the truth will out eventually. But -- and there 5 may be -- there may be a precipitous drop. But the 6 stock has already been at a -- at a level and -- and 7 stock has already been purchased at an inflated level, 8 which means that the employees are not getting what they 9 were entitled to.

10 JUSTICE ALITO: But you say they should sell 11 based on the inside information?

12 MR. KNEEDLER: No, he can't -- he can't sell 13 on the basis of inside information. He could -- I'm 14 sorry, he could stop purchasing, which is --

15 JUSTICE BREYER: But the market will see 16 through that in about two seconds. But the --

17 MR. KNEEDLER: Well, no, this is the --

18 JUSTICE BREYER: That isn't really my 19 question. It's a numerical question. What -- you know, 20 I was making up numbers wildly. What are the actual 21 numbers? That is, approximately how much in assets is 22 accounted for by ownership of the company's -- you know, 23 this kind of a plan where you buy the company's stock.
24 Do you know?

25 MR. KNEEDLER: I don't know the amount of 1 assets, but --

2 JUSTICE BREYER: About?

3 MR. KNEEDLER: -- as I -- as I recall, I

4 think there are perhaps 12 or 14,000 ESOP plans.

5 Some -- about half the employees covered are in publicly 6 traded -- in publicly traded corporations.

7 I want to make another point in terms of the 8 purposes of an ESOP. The -- Congress has provided for 9 investment in -- in employer stock, but it has not 10 excepted the fiduciaries from the general duty of -- of 11 prudence. The statute -- the statute makes that clear.
12 And in 2006, Congress provided that employees of 13 publicly traded companies must be given the right to 14 diversify, which reflects the judgment --

15 JUSTICE KENNEDY: But your -- your argument,
16 at least according to the Petitioners's brief, and I
17 think they're correct, you go away from the purity 18 standard. You have your own standard whether or not 19 it's materially overvalued in this instance. Or are you 20 saying --

21 MR. KNEEDLER: For inside -- where there's 22 inside information and is it -- is it materially 23 overvalued. And there could -- there can 24 be circumstances --

25 JUSTICE KENNEDY: But -- but then -- but

Official

1 then you are creating a special standard which is just 2 what you're accusing the Petitioners of doing.

3 MR. KNEEDLER: Well, the question is what's 4 the general standard of prudence. And it would always 5 be imprudent for a diversified or non-diversified plan 6 for the fiduciaries to purchase a -- an asset that 7 they -- or hold on to an asset that they know to be -- 8 or should know with reasonable investigation is 9 materially overvalued.

10 JUSTICE ALITO: Well, let me give you - I'll give you this 11 example. It's helpful to have something concrete here 12 and not just general statements of -- of -- about 13 fiduciary duty.

14 Let's say that the trustee receives inside
15 information that someone has alleged that corporate 16 office -- a particular corporate officer has engaged in 17 illegal conduct. And if it turns out that that conduct 18 actually took place, that -- that information -- that 19 will cause damage to the company. But it's -- it's -- 20 it hasn't been proven. There's simply been an 21 allegation.

22 Now, what -- at that point, what does the 23 trustee -- what do you think the trustee has to do? If 24 that information were available to the public, let's say 25 it would cause the price of the stock to go down, so

1 it's material -- it's material information, but at a
2 somewhat preliminary stage. What do you do? Completely 3 stop buying the stock? You can't sell. Disclose the 4 information? What is supposed to be done?

5 MR. KNEEDLER: There is no absolute answer
6 in that situation. Stopping buying might be the right
7 approach. That's not uncommon, and there are blackout 8 periods where -- where plans in companies bar trading in 9 the stock. But if it's material information that the 10 securities laws require to be disclosed, there is no 11 reason why the participants in an ERISA plan should be 12 unprotected when that material information affects 13 the --

14 JUSTICE ALITO: Well, that's -- no. But -- 15 but would that information have to be disclosed under 16 the securities laws? Let's say there was no prior -- no 17 prior misleading statement regarding this matter.

18 MR. KNEEDLER: It would have to be 19 disclosed.

20 JUSTICE ALITO: Eventually.

21 MR. KNEEDLER: If it's major, it might have 22 to be disclosed within 4 days under -- under 8(k).
23 Otherwise, it would be quarterly or annually. And we 24 are -- we are suggesting that the -- that disclosure 25 obligations should be geared to what the securities law

1 provides --

2 JUSTICE KENNEDY: The Chief Justice
3 indicated I can ask just one question. Is this a 4 case in which we must decide what the fiduciary standard 5 is quite without regard to inside information? Is 6 inside information just an added issue in the case or is 7 it the key issue in the case?

8 MR. KNEEDLER: We think in this case it
9 is -- it is the key issue. The Court does not have to 10 decide what fiduciary obligations the fiduciary of an 11 ESOP would have in -- in dire circumstances where the -- 12 where you have a failing company or mismanagement or 13 something like that. We are focused here on inside 14 information that materially enhances the value of the 15 stock, overvalues it, and in that situation, we think 16 that a fiduciary of an ESOP, just like the fiduciary of 17 any other plan, has a -- has a duty of prudence not to 18 remain invested in or to purchase materially overvalued
19 stock.

20 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you, counsel.
21 Mr. Long, you have five minutes.

22 REBUTTAL ARGUMENT OF ROBERT A. LONG, JR.

23 ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONERS

24 MR. LONG: The ESOP association brief
25 reports at page 2 that there are $1.07 trillion in these

1 employee stock plans, and we think really that's the 2 key, are all of the Courts of Appeals considering many 3 cases, you know, with many different fact patterns have 4 not disagreed. There is no circuit split on the issue
5 that we've spent all our time discussing this morning.
6 The only circuit split is on whether this presumption 7 applies at the motion to dismiss stage.

8 The real point here, as -- as Justice
9 Kennedy said, Congress strongly supports ESOPs. It 10 wants to encourage them so it --

11 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: I -- I appreciate that.
12 But if I'm listening to the government carefully and 13 understanding its position, it's basically saying if 14 there's been a violation of a securities law that a 15 fiduciary knows, then why shouldn't it be liable both 16 under the company, under 10b-5, and the director of the 17 plan or the trustee of the plan as a breach of loyalty 18 to -- or -- or of prudence to the beneficiaries?

19 MR. LONG: Well, again -- again --

20 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: It's like -- yes, it's a 21 double remedy, but there's lots of things that provide 22 double remedies. So if that person should have 23 disclosed.

24 MR. LONG: Well, I mean, securities law will 25 provide the first remedy. And if you're going to add an

1 additional --

2 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Well, it won't as a
3 trustee.

4 MR. LONG: If you're going to add an 5 additional --

6 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: It will against the 7 company.

8 MR. LONG: Well, but -- but the additional 9 ERISA remedy in this ESOP context is going to create 10 these tremendous problems. I -- I couldn't begin to 11 understand what the ESOP fiduciary was supposed to do in 12 these circumstances, I mean, in terms of --

13 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Obey the law. I think 14 that that's the simple answer.

15 MR. LONG: Well, but you will create two 16 different centers of communication now out of each 17 corporation with an ESOP. The corporation's own 18 statements and then the ESOP.

19 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: You know they created 20 the conflicts.

21 MR. LONG: Well, I think -- I think --

22 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: I'm not shrugging my 23 shoulder out of lack of sympathy but out of reality.
24 The loyalty is to the beneficiaries. If you're going to 25 place someone there who comes to inside knowledge,

1 you're going to create potentially a problem.

2 MR. LONG: Well, but --

3 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: But I think your 4 adversary was saying that's a self-induced problem, not 5 one that the law should excuse you from following 6 whatever the law is.

7 MR. LONG: Well, but -- but two points. I
8 mean, you -- I would submit you should be very cautious 9 about interpreting these duties in ways that will make 10 ESOPs unworkable, and I think that would basically cause 11 many companies to say we can't put fiduciaries in that 12 situation, so we're not going to have ESOPs at all.

13 And the -- you know, again, because the 14 special purpose of an ESOP is to give the employees a 15 piece of the rock, ownership in the company, if the 16 company is going through temporary hard times, even if 17 there's a situation where there's some, you know, 18 material misinformation that is out in the market, that 19 may all be corrected in the long term. You know, in 20 this case, if the fiduciaries had shut down the ESOP, 21 they would certainly have been sued because they would 22 have violated the plan terms, and the -- the plan has 23 done very well. It's gone up from $2 to over $22.

24 So they might have had a very hard time 25 winning that case because they would have been

1 challenged that prudence didn't really require you to 2 shut it down. Yes, we were going through some severe 3 problems, but we came through them.

4 That's the razor's edge. That's the rock
5 and the hard place. They're going to be sued unless you
6 recognize this presumption that every court of appeals
7 has recognized to give the ESOP fiduciary some leeway.
8 They're going to be different from any other fiduciary 9 in any other plan because it's the company's stock.

10 And if they, you know -- if -- if the stock
11 goes down under this open-ended duty of prudence, 12 they're going to be sued for not having anticipated that 13 and done something, sold, stopped trading, put out 14 information. But if they don't do it and the stock goes 15 up, they're going to be sued for that.

16 And, in fact, you know, if you recognize the 17 government's approach, there'll be a whole new class of 18 cases, which is, if the stock goes up, their -- 19 plaintiffs' lawyers will be able to argue, well, the 20 fiduciary should have -- should have anticipated that, 21 and the participants who were selling and deciding to 22 move over to the S&P 500 fund, you let them sell their 23 stock too cheaply, and that's a violation. So it's -- 24 it's unworkable.

25 We submit.

1 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you, counsel.

2 The case is submitted.

3 (Whereupon, at 11:30 a.m., the case in the 4 above-entitled matter was submitted.)
